THE STORE OF QUALITY FOR THE PEOPLE

AMERICAN SYMPATHIES IN THE WAR

Delaware to Texas.

Making a sudden eastward shift across the country to Delaware, the first State of the South Atlantic Division, we begin to feel the contact of a general pro-Ally opinion. Dover favors the Allies "by a great majority," we hear; and from Wilmington, through neutral editors, we learn that the city is "pro-Ally, without being anti-German." Another report states that "there is much German sentiment in Wilmington, particularly among German-Americans and Hungarians. Taking the State at large, however, the sentiment is with the Allies, due largely to the English ancestry of the people."

In Maryland, the press are generally neutral, although one paper avows that its "sympathy is with the Allies." The public, as we hear from the same city, is "mostly anti-German." And word comes from Cumberland that "sentiment here, even among a large number of Germans, is with the Allies and against the German Emperor and his militant party." This is due to the treatment of neutral Belgium, and the belief that the Emperor and not the German people forced the war. As a straw showing the way the wind blows in Washington, D. C., we are told by an editor that his paper "in its editorial policy aims to be fair to both sides in the present European war. Public sentiment here has been distinctly in favor of the Allies. . . . a sentiment which has increased since the fall of Antwerp."

In the representative cities of Virginia the description of community feeling ranges from "practically unanimous for the Allies" to "pretty generally in favor of the Allies," the "only exceptions," we hear from Hampton, are "among these nearly full-blooded Germans. Most of those of Pennsylvania or German descent are pro-Ally." In West Virginia, towns like Huntington and Elkins are squarely on the side of the Allies. But from Wheeling, with 95 per cent. of the population German, and from Morgantown, with many Germans employed in the glass-factories, we learn that public opinion is "divided." A Martinsburg neutral editor, who "deplores the biased reports of the Allies regarding German atrocities," writes that, "generally speaking, the community has recently changed from the Allies, and now favors the Germans. The Allies' censorship of the news unfavorable to them and Japan's advent at England's urging have done much to bring about this reversal of feeling, until now the German successes are hailed with joy."

In North Carolina we learn that Durham is strongly pro-Ally, and the editor who provides this information supports the Allies in his paper, and believes what is true of Durham is "true throughout the South." At least it is said also of Winston-Salem; but we hear from Greensboro that while the Allies are looked upon as the "winning side," there are "many of German descent who favor the Germans." Four cities in South Carolina, including Columbia, the capital, report "overwhelmingly in favor of the Allies," "mainly because the general belief is that German successes mean prolongation of the war," says an Orange editor. To offset this, Newberry states that although the editor is "personally in sympathy with the Germans, his paper has not taken sides." And he adds that "the sentiment of this community I believe is with the Germans. I gather this from talking with the people."

The state of mind in Georgia, where the press seem divided on the question of neutral editorials, may be gathered from the following message from Atlanta: "In our opinion it is best for the welfare of this country, and that of the world in general, that the Allies should be victorious over Germany, and this expresses practically the universal sentiment of this section." So also, in Savannah, Marion, Rome, and Gainesville, while in Athens "the general sentiment is favorable to a great degree to the Allies, outside of German residents." Completely neutral, we hear, in Jacksonville, Florida, where "the Germans are for Germany, the British, French and Russians for the Allies."

The interesting news comes from one editor in Louisville, Kentucky, that the city is overwhelmingly for the Allies, and from another that opinion is "divided." The latter word describes also the feeling in Covington, Paducah, and Danville. Lexington, Owensboro, and Henderson are said to be wholly pro-Ally. In Tennessee a Greenville editor supports the Allies, and says the town is "almost unanimous in favor of the Allies," but the word comes from Memphis that the editorial policy of a certain journal is pro-German and that the opinion of the people is "about equally divided, though changing rapidly to the Germans."

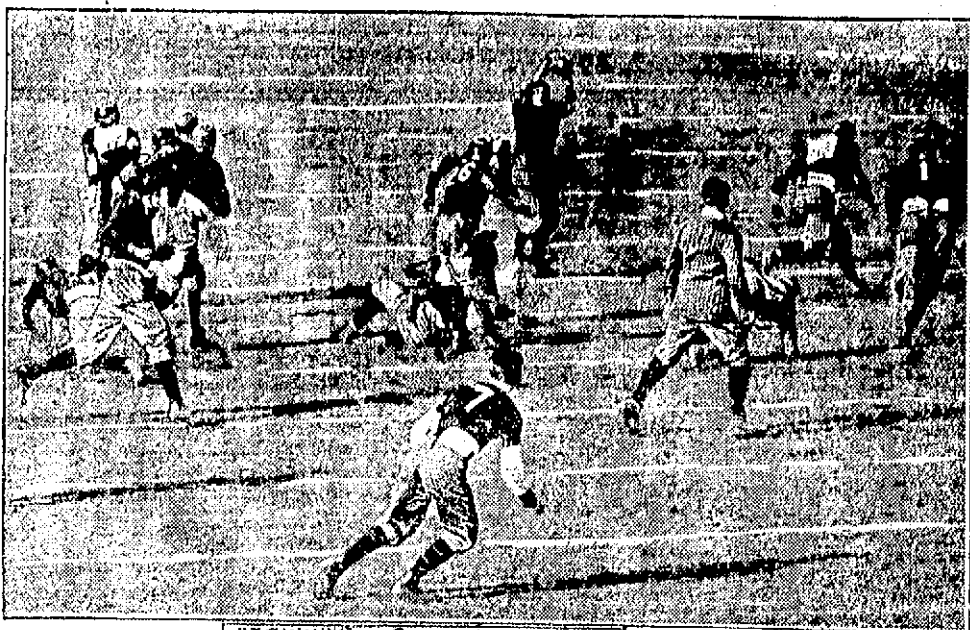

Coming down into Alabama, we discover a marked pro-Ally feeling with a "divided" feeling almost as pronounced. To towns like Huntsville, Dothan, Gadsden, Evergreen and Centre the former remark applies. But though Athens is "almost solid for the Allies," yet "a few Germans stand for the Fatherland." Of Montgomery it is said that Ally partisans are more numerous, but the German "more active." The original sentiment comes from Ray Minette that it is "almost unanimous with the Allies, but wouldn't object to Germans holding the reins."

Turning to Mississippi, we meet two Vicksburg editors who support the Allies in their papers and say that city is of the same mind; but Biloxi informs us that while the majority seems to lean toward the Allies, nevertheless opinion is "very much divided."

From Fort Smith, Arkansas, we hear that while there "is probably a preponderance of sympathy for the Allies, still some change in the favor of the Germans has taken place since the first few weeks of the war."

Similar is the statement from Texarkana by an editor who admits that he "favors the Allies, but is fair to the Germans." He feels that the "onus of the war is on Germany," and because of that "the preponderance of public opinion in this section seems to be largely on the side of the Allies. However, the people are not partisans in the matter." Contrary is the word from Argenta, where it is said that "the German sympathizers are more numerous."

The Open Style of Football Has Been Shown In Nearly All the Big Games this Season

BEGINNING OF A TRIPLE PASS.

The changes in football that have been going on for some time have been much in evidence in the big college games this season. There has been less of the mass play, less the huddling, and more of the spread formation, forward passes and triple passes. The result is a more enjoyable game from the standpoint of the spectators, for the ball is in sight most of the time, though its movements are often so rapid and it is tossed back and forth with such unexpected quickness that only the close observer can keep track of it. This picture, made during the battle between Yale and Princeton, gives an idea of the manner of game that football is becoming.

DAILY SPORT LETTER

By Frank Q. Menkle

New York, Nov. 19.—There were 12 international football games (this season, but in 1915 there will probably be 20 or more).

The international football games played this fall were on something of an experimental order. The experiment proved highly successful. Every game in which East met West was a big financial success.

Yale and Harvard staged games with Notre Dame and Michigan this year. Princeton had no game with a big Western eleven but it is almost certain that Princeton's 1915 schedule will call for a meeting between the Tigers and one or possibly two Western elevens.

Negotiations are now under way for a game between Dartmouth and Michigan in October, 1915 to be played on the Polo Grounds, New York. Such a game would draw a capacity crowd in the New York Giants field. Dartmouth long has been a big favorite in New York and the New York football enthusiast has been anxious to see a Michigan eleven ever since Yost assembled his great elevens of 1902-03-04.

Michigan and Notre Dame figured in seven of the eleven international games this season. These colleges do not belong to the western conference. The conference, up to this season, frowned upon such a low brow thing as meeting Easterners. But the conference awoke to the fact this season that the business of battling with eastern elevens helped the financial end of football considerably.

Some college authorities try to kid the public into believing that they permit their students to play football not for the gold it produces, oh no! They permit football just to give the boys exercise. But the solid fact remains that the colleges do stage football games for the sake of financial profit as well as for golden glory.

And so the fact that Michigan and Notre Dame grabbed off a nice little profit through playing international games has influenced some of the western conference teams to look eastward for games next fall, and before the schedules are completed it is certain that at least a half dozen big western elevens will be dated up for the games in the East in 1915.

A limit for stadiums seems to have been reached in the building of the Yale Bowl, at New Haven, Conn. The stadium can seat 70,000 and the fact that over 100,000 requests for seats were made for the Yale-Harvard game has caused some persons to predict that stadium seating 100,000 to 150,000 will be a thing of the near future.

Such a happening seems unlikely. To build a stadium of this size, it would mean that the rear rows of seats would be from 700 to 900 feet away from the center of the playing field. That would be from one-seventh to one-sixth of a mile away from the center of operations—too far away for the majority of persons in the rear seats to get a clear view of what was going on. No one would care to pay real money to see a game of football and then to find that the game was being played so far away that it was hardly possible to see what was what.

Most likely those who will have rear seats in the Yale bowl for the Yale-Harvard game on Saturday will have some fault to find as the end seats are said to be about 450 feet away from the center of the playing field. When the teams are at the farther end of the playing field that adds nearly 300 feet to the distance from the rear seats. Looking at a football game from a distance of 450 to 750 feet isn't going to prove highly entertaining.

TO RACE TODAY

The match race between Arthur

Behrman's Maid Lake and William McCall's Miss McClure, will be held at two o'clock this afternoon at the Jones' race track. It was to have been held on Wednesday, but the track was not ready, and it has been held over until today. It is under the auspices of the Portsmouth Driving Club.

CLASS OF 1889

Of Phillips-Exeter Make Public Its Gift of $2500.

The class of 1889 of Phillips academy has made public a gift of $2500 which was started at the 25th reunion held last June. The sum of $500 was pledged by Booth Tarkington and Edward C. Cullinan, the only surviving members of the Penn board of that year, and as the class was intending to publish a memorial Penn at graduation, it was decided that the money could not be used to better advantage as a reunion fund, and those present pledged $2500 which will probably be doubled before its next reunion in 1919.

Booth Tarkington, the well known author, was unable to be present at the reunion, but sent a letter of regret and his pledge for the reunion fund.

The committee for the next reunion is composed of Bernard W. Trafford, David T. Peres, and Dr. William B. Keniston.

Last night was the quietest with the police for a long time. Two for safe keeping and two lodgers were on the police blotter.

APPLICATION FOR CONFIRMATION OF COMPOSITION.

In the District Court of the United States for the District of New Hampshire.

In the matter of Arthur J. Spollett, Bankrupt. To the Honorable Edgar Aldrich, Judge of the District Court of the United States for the District of New Hampshire.

At Perry, in said District, on the ninth day of November, A. D. 1914, now comes Arthur J. Spollett, the above-named bankrupt, and respectfully represents to the court that, after he had been examined at a meeting of his creditors and had filed in court a schedule of his property and a list of his creditors, as required by law, he offered terms of composition to his creditors, which terms have been accepted in writing by a majority in number of all creditors whose claims have been allowed, which number represents a majority in amount of such claims; that the composition to be paid by the bankrupt to his creditors, the money necessary to pay all debts which have priority, and the costs of the proceedings, amounting in all to the sum of Twenty-Five hundred dollars, has been deposited subject to the order of the judge of the Honorable National Bank of Manchester, N. H., a designated depository of money in bankruptcy cases.

Wherefore the said Arthur J. Spollett respectfully asks that the said composition may be confirmed by the court.

ARTHUR J. SPOLLETT, Bankrupt.

Order of Notice Thirteen.

District of New Hampshire, ss. On this 10th day of November, A. D. 1914, on reading the foregoing petition, it is so ordered.

Ordered by the court, that a hearing be had upon the same on the 27th day of November, A. D. 1914, before said court, at Concord, in said District, at ten o'clock in the forenoon; and that notice thereof be published in "The Portsmouth Herald," a newspaper printed in said District, and that all known creditors and other persons in interest may appear at the said time and place and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of the said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered by the court, that the clerk shall send by mail to all known creditors notices of said petition and this order, addressed to them at their places of residence as stated.

Witness the Honorable Edgar Aldrich, judge of the said court, and the seal thereof, at Concord, in said District, on the 10th day of November, A. D. 1914. BURNS P. HODGMAN, Clerk.

A true copy of petition and order thereon. Attest: BURNS P. HODGMAN, Clerk.

ENGLISH SHIPS AGAIN GET INTO ACTION

Destroy German Troop Train in Flanders - Germans Retreating from the Yser - Big Battle Forming in East Prussia

London, Nov. 18.—Terrible toll was taken by the guns of a portion of the allied fleet off Belgium when a German troop train, rushing re-enforcements to the battle line, was struck by shells from the warships, wrecked, set on fire and completely destroyed.

Reports of the work of the fleet, which again has been able to get into action with the lifting of fogs, reached here today in dispatches from Belgium. Monday they were able to resume their bombardment of the coast.

The portion of the fleet in action bombarded the coast towns of Zebrugge and Knocke, held by the Germans. Buildings were badly damaged by the shell fire.

The German train was destroyed running along the coast.

The Salvay Company's works on the Druges ship canal, which are being used as a base for German military trains, were wrecked.

Germans Flee Yser Bank; Floods Imperil Dixmude.

London, Nov. 18.—The correspondent of the Times in Flanders telegraphs that the Germans have completely evacuated the left bank of the Yser canal and that the floods are seriously jeopardizing the German position at Dixmude. The French are nominally holding the south end of the town of Dixmude and the Germans the north side. There is much hand to hand fighting.

"Recent days have been entirely favorable to the Allies," the correspondent says, "and it may be taken as certain that the retreat of the enemy is simply a question of time. Between our forces and the enemy, the whole way from Neuport to Dixmude, there is a protective sheet of water and all hopes of a German advance have been frustrated."

"According to the Amsterdam Telegraph's Stuis, Netherlands, correspondent, the Germans occupying Dixmude have suffered heavy losses. In fresh fighting which has taken place there they lost 2700 men.

The town of Neuport is badly damaged. Heavy cannonading was heard Tuesday in the direction of Ypres, indicating a renewal of the heavy fighting there.

Fugitives say that additional submarines are being constructed at Zebrugge.

Zouaves Rout Germans with Bayonet Paris, Nov. 18.—A brilliant bayonet charge by French zouaves, driving the Germans from a wood which had been disputed for three days, was reported in the official communiqué today.

Terrible encounters have occurred all along the line between Dixmude and Ypres for possession of patches of wood in which Germans had taken up positions. The allied troops, without exception, have been forced to resort to the bayonet to clear these woods. The charge of the zouaves reported today is a duplication of the feat accomplished by British commands.

Weather conditions along the coast are improving. To the north the fog has lifted sufficiently to enable the allied warships to get into action. The heavy rains about Neuport and Dixmude have practically ceased. It is now turning very cold, however, and the suffering of the men in the trenches is alleviated but little.

Heavy artillery fighting continues along the Aisne. The bombardment about Rheims has been resumed and the altar of the famous cathedral is said to have been damaged by a shell. Fresh French troops of the second line are about to take up positions along the battlefield. The Belgian troops, which have been in the field constantly, are being relieved. Fresh levies are also available to take the place of the French forces which have been in the trenches for the past two months.

Enemy Repulsed, Says Paris Bulletin

Paris, Nov. 18.—The French official statement given out in Paris this afternoon says that yesterday saw numerous artillery duels and some isolated infantry attacks, all of which were repulsed.

"The day passed much as the day before. There were numerous artillery exchanges, and some isolated attacks on the part of the enemy's infantry, all of which were repulsed.

"From the North sea to the Ys, the front was subjected to a fairly active bombardment, particularly at Neuport and to the east and to the south of Ypres.

"Near Bixschotte the zouaves, charging with the bayonet, brilliantly took possession of a forest which had been disputed between the enemy and ourselves for three days.

"To the south of Ypres an offensive movement on the part of the enemy's infantry was repulsed by our troops. The English army also maintained its front.

"From Arras to the Oise there is nothing new to report.

"In the region of Craonne our artillery on several occasions secured the advantage over the batteries of the enemy.

"The bombardment of Rheims has continued. From Rheims to the Argonne there is nothing new to report. In the region of St. Mihiel, in spite of counter attacks by the Germans, we have retained in our possession the western part of the village of Chauvencourt.

"In Alsace the landwehr battalions sent into the region of Sainte Marie-aux-Mines have had to be taken out for the reason that they lost, one-half of their effective strength."

British Driven Back, Rally and Rout Teutons.

London, Nov. 18.—The official information bureau today gave out a statement as follows:

"Our third division was subjected yesterday to a heavy attack, first from artillery and then from infantry, the brunt of both falling upon two battalions of the division. These were shelled out of their trenches, but they recovered after a brilliant counter attack, which drove the enemy back in disorder for some 500 yards.

"During the day an attack was made also on a brigade of the second division. In this the enemy were repulsed with heavy loss."

Petrograd, Nov. 18.—Russian and German forces are rapidly forming for a gigantic battle in Poland, which may rival the bloody encounter of Wirballen.

It is admitted here the Germans continue their offensive movement in Poland, advancing along the Vistula and Warthe rivers. Before them is an enormous Russian force. It is not yet in line for a general conflict, but is headed for the fort of Thorn. The Germans now pressing forward are between them and the fort. Fighting is now in progress between the Vistula and the Warthe, and a general engagement is expected soon.

Although the Germans continue to hold the Mazurian lake region in East Prussia, the Russian lines are constantly advancing between Gumbinnen and Angerburg.

A dispatch from Marmaritz, on the Austro-Rumanian frontier, declares furious fighting is going on in the northern part of the crown land of Bukowina. The Russian troops are described as victorious. The Austrians are described as victorious. The Austrians are fleeing in great disorder before the Russian advance.

Fall of Belgrade Near, Says Berlin Press.

Berlin, Nov. 18, via London.—The papers of Berlin declare again today that the fall of Belgrade, Serbia, is imminent.

An official war bulletin, given out in Berlin today, sets forth that the operations on the eastern front are progressing favorably. The Germans, apparently, are using their victory at Wlodawek to the greatest advantage. The Russian armies, defeated near Lipno, are today probably in the vicinity of Plock, and the forces defeated near Wloclawek are now near Kutno and Deschyslo.

For the continuation of operations, the bulletin goes on to say, it will be of the greatest importance for the German troops from the region of Soldau to make further progress against the right wing of the main Russian army. If the Russians intend to retire behind the Vistula, such a retreat, considering the extremely bad condition of the roads, would be most difficult; consequently, the Russians probably will prefer to make a definite stand when the German and Austrian forces attack.

According to a statement given out in Vienna the fortress of Przemyśl, now being besieged by the Russians, is provisioned for 12 months.

NATIONAL MUNICIPAL LEAGUE MEETING

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 18.—Several hundred men and women interested in good city government gathered here today for the four day meeting of the National Municipal League. It is the twentieth annual convention of the league and the twenty-second national conference for good city government.

Excepting the executive meetings, the sessions will be open to the public. Ex-Governor Warfield presided over the first meeting. At this the yearly review of important developments along civic lines will be presented by Clinton R. Woodruff, secretary of the league.

"Evolution in Charter Making" will be the theme of the address of William Ludley Poulke, president of the league this evening. This will deal particularly with the League's efforts in behalf of charter reform, in connection with which it has had great influence in the last fifteen years.

On Thursday Miss June Adams of Chicago, will preside in the afternoon. First on the program will be the question of food supply. Dr. Clyde L. King of the University of Pennsylvania and chairman of the league committee on the relation of the city to its food supply will submit his report. Dr. King has been studying the problem ever since the protest was voiced against the increasing cost of food-stuffs, and what he has in report will be of interest to most communities.

Next the children of the cities will be considered. Mrs. Florence Kelley, secretary of the National Consumers' League will be the principal speaker. She will tell of conditions disclosed by her investigations and she will also describe what is being done to improve them.

Women's work in the city, the importance of which is easily appreciated in view of the growth of the suffrage movement will be discussed by Mrs. Charles A. Beard. Thursday evening the public meeting will be addressed by President Lowell of Harvard University; Miss Adams, and Mayor John D. Mitchell of New York. President Lowell will speak of the need for greater effort in municipal administration. Miss Adams will deal with the social activities of the city, touching also upon the question of the children. Mayor Mitchell will talk on unemployment and the city's duty in this respect. President Poulke will preside.

On Friday, November 20th the question of municipal program will be taken up. After the committee's report there will be a general discussion of this and kindred questions. Arthur M. Swanson, chief examiner for Philadelphia's Civil Service Commission will open up the subject of the practicability of the merit system. He will furnish some interesting information on his working in his city under Mayor Blankenburg.

Henry M. Waite, the new city manager of Dayton, O., who is conducting an experiment of national interest, will describe his way of doing things and tell what has been accomplished in proof of the practicability of the plan.

Ex-Attorney General Charles J. Bonaparte, formerly president of the National Municipal League, will preside over the session devoted to political methods. Through its chairman Alice Well, an eminent Pittsburgh lawyer, the committee on improvement in Political Methods will submit an interesting report.

A Justifiable Step.

There is satisfaction to be derived from the action of the government in taking steps to compel railroad and steamboat companies doing an interstate business to provide their patrons with pure water for drinking purposes. It is beyond the power of the government to regulate this matter within any state, as each state is supreme in health matters within its own borders, but where interstate traffic is concerned the government has a right to step in and it is well that it has seen fit to do so with regard to the question of drinking water on boats and trains.

One need not have traveled much to know that the water served on many steamboats and railroad trains is not fit to drink; however much disguised by a liberal use of ice. It is not only unpalatable in many cases, but absolutely dangerous to health, and that this abuse is to be remedied so far as lies in the power of the federal government is cause for gratification.

There never was a time when the public health received as much attention as it does today. In connection with the subject there is a great deal of theory and fadism that are worse than useless, but insistence upon pure drinking water is in line with reason, common sense and safety. Providing water free from contamination is more important than the use of individual drinking cups, which is insisted upon in some states. In fact, there is hardly any other one thing so essential to good health as pure drinking water.

In order that there should be a proper basis to work on the government has established a standard for pure water by which all water called in question will be judged. This was done on the recommendation of the federal health service. Under this regulation railroad and steamboat companies doing an interstate business will be obliged to furnish wholesome drinking water to their patrons, and this is as it should be. Such companies as are already furnishing pure water will not be affected by this move; all others will be and should be.

There are times when it seems that the federal government is inclined to meddle overmuch with the affairs of the people, as this paper may have occasionally intimated, but this stroke in behalf of wholesome drinking water for the traveling public is altogether justifiable and will be approved by all except those who for the sake of a trifling gain will not do the right thing until they are compelled to. Here's to the health of the government with a glass of pure water!

The Life Extension Institute of New York calls for two million recruits in the National Health Guard, whose mission is to "prevent life waste and to impress the public with the need of upbuilding national vitality and efficiency." In view of the vast and increasing number of reformatory and "uplifting" influences at work, the volume of wrongs and shortcomings in this country is nothing short of staggering.

Already are heard the first faint notes of an agitation for a six-hour working day, it being contended by the advance guard of this movement that the eight-hour day is "enervating and excessive." But the attempt to bring about a six-hour working day is liable to prove somewhat enervating before the task is accomplished.

A wireless station having been located in the Maine woods, the government is now endeavoring to ascertain who erected it and what for. There is no reason to believe it was set up by hunters, and the discovery lends color to the recent rumor that the Germans or their sympathizers have been busy in the northern wilderness.

A New England rural improvement league in instructing the people within its "sphere of influence" in ways of keeping cabbage through the winter says, among other things, that "the air must be kept moist and dry." The country is suffering today from too much of this sort of "teaching."

A million dollar cargo of dyestuffs has been landed at New York from Germany. It becomes more and more evident that this country is not to be driven out of business by the war. On the other hand, the prediction is general that business here is very rapidly approaching a period of much greater activity.

There are to be no White House dinners this year, primarily on account of the death of Mrs. Wilson. Possibly, also, the fact that some of the foreign diplomats who are always invited to such dinners are not on speaking terms may have had its effect in bringing about this decision.

It was a little cruel to start the story that the price of Thanksgiving turkeys would be sent bounding by the foot and mouth disease. It will be high enough without any help from that source.

It is reported from Washington that it is planned to speed up the work of Congress at the December session. It would be a great achievement.

New York city is trembling in the fear of further bomb outrages. The red flag is not such a trivial thing, after all, when its followers get busy.

CURRENT OPINION

LATIN AMERICA NEEDS CASH MORE THAN DRUMMERS

Latin America needs money more now than commercial travelers. It needs credit and the machinery for handling this credit. They haven't the machinery or commerce developed yet. The first thing in Latin America is the matter of service. We have got to serve in order to get the commerce. The French, the British and the Germans have served Latin America. They gave money, brains and influence. That's what the United States will have to do before it can get the Latin American trade.—By Secretary of Commerce W. C. Redfield.

CHURCH NOTES

The Onward Class of the Court street church held a business meeting and social in the vestry of the church on Monday evening. There was a good attendance present and much business was transacted. At the conclusion of the business session a social hour was enjoyed, when games and refreshments were in order.

A board meeting of the Equal Suffrage League of this city was held on Tuesday afternoon in the chapel of the North church.

The Women's Home Missionary Society of the North Congregational church held their first meeting in the chapel house of the church on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Edward Adams was the hostess and Mrs. Harry Baynton poured out the tea table.

The Girls' Guild of the Middle street Baptist church will be held this evening.

The Ladies' Social Circle of the Universalist church are conducting a rummage sale all day today.

The ladies of the Methodist church are working as hard now as in the past, to raise money to pay for their splendid church, and have some good things in store for the public. All who heard the Lotus Quartette when Elmer Crawford Adams, the genius of the violin was with them, will be eager to hear him in his own concert company at Freeman's hall Thursday evening.

Wednesday the ladies of the Methodist church held an alms sewing meeting preparing for the sale of aprons, comforters, etc., Dec. 2 and 3. Basket lunch was served at noon, and at 6 o'clock the monthly supper was served.

The Epworth League and Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church have given the people of Portsmouth some first class entertainments and concerts the past two years, and have more booked for the near future. The Lotus Quartette always pleases and they are to appear here again before long. Those who heard the quartette in Freeman's hall a year ago last winter when Elmer Crawford Adams was with them, and charmed all with his violin playing will be glad of the chance to hear him again with his own company at Freeman's hall on Thursday evening.

The members of the Congregational Society of Rye are planning for their annual two night's fair to be held on Thursday and Friday evenings Dec. 3 and 4. "Billy's Bungalow" will be given on Thursday evening while "The Undoing of Job" will be presented by local talent on Friday evening.

THE RACE PROBLEM.

Dr. Du Bois of Boston Predicts There Will Be a Conflict.

Dr. W. E. DuBois of Boston, a Harvard graduate and one of the leading scholars of his race, spoke at Association hall Wednesday afternoon under the direction of the Graffiti club, taking as his subject, "The World Problem of the Color Line." Dr. DuBois endeavored to explain the cause of the present European war, saying that it was caused by a system of colonization whereby European countries have united labor and capital in an effort to exploit people of other climes.

"He discussed some of the acts of white 'civilization' which have served to engender hatred between the white and dark races, such as the partition of Africa and the South African war."

WAR MAPS AND PEACE MAPS

Far more interesting than the war maps that mark the devastation of armies, are the peace maps that picture the great constructive work on this continent. North America is finding itself. It is developing its own resources; developing its strength.

The advertising columns in this and other leading newspapers are the American peace maps. They tell of the march of industry, the great work of construction and upbuilding.

No man can be a daily reader of advertising with being a better patriot.

GERMAN AERIAL SCOUT MISSING

(Special to The Herald)

Berlin, Nov. 19.—The defeat of a French attack on the western slope of the Argonne forest, as announced in an official report from the German staff received here today.

It also tells briefly of a battle in the air between aviators of the German and allied armies. One German aerial scout is missing as a result.

STEAMSHIP STRIKES A MINE

(Special to The Herald)

Vienna, via Amsterdam, Nov. 19.—The Austro-Hungarian steamship Josephine struck a mine at Pola, the Austrian naval base in the gulf of Vienna. It was officially announced today. All the passengers and crew, with the exception of six persons, were saved.

DELIVERED A LECTURE ON QUEBEC

Mr. Daniel Beckford, Deputy Supreme Regent of the Royal Arcanum, delivered an interesting lecture before the members of Alpha Council, at the regular meeting on Wednesday evening on Quebec and the shrine of St. Anne de Beaupre.

At the same meeting it was voted to hold a "Get Together Night" on Dec. 16.

This paper was in error in stating that the degree team from Alpha Council worked the degree at the big Arcanum meeting in Dover on Tuesday evening. It should have been the Mayor Waldron team who exemplified for the first time the Kempton ritual, and in a most excellent manner.

BODY OF YOUNG GIRL FOUND

Everett, Mass., Nov. 19.—The body of 15 year old Mildred Parker, who has been missing since Saturday night was found today in the pool at the Coleman quarry within five minutes after the police began to grapple for it.

WEALTHY WOMAN DYING FROM ASSAULT

Aurora, Ill., Nov. 18.—Mrs. Jerome Miller, daughter of a former mayor, and known as the wealthiest woman in Aurora, was found unconscious, her head crushed with a wrench in the yard of the Free Methodist church here today. Her death is a matter of a few hours.

EPISCOPAL CONVENTION COMES TO END

Rev. Charles LeV. Brine Chosen a Deputy to the Provincial Synod.

Concord, Nov. 19.—The convention of the Episcopal diocese of New Hampshire ended yesterday with the address of Bishop Edward M. Parker and the election of officers. Re-elections were the rule, except for registrar; Miss Mary Niles being elected to succeed Otis C. Hammond in that position.

Other officers elected were Secretary Richard W. Doe, member of the standing committee; Rev. Lucius W. Sherman of Hanover; Rev. Dr. W. Stanley Emery, Rev. Dr. Samuel S. Dury of Concord; Judge Robert J. Peaslee of Manchester; Edward C. Niles and Edward K. Woodworth of Concord; treasurer of the convention, Henry W. Stevens of Concord; deputies to the provincial synod, Rev. William E. Patterson of Claremont, Rev. Charles LeV. Brine of Portsmouth, Rev. John L. Littell of Keene, Rev. Charles B. Hazard of Manchester, William A. Whitney of Claremont, Judge Peaslee and William A. Durlough of Manchester and Elmer W. Eaton of Nashua.

Bishop Parker in his annual address reviewed his work at length as bishop of the diocese and made several recommendations for the advancement of increasing work of the diocese. The needs of the diocese, Bishop Parker outlined as follows:

First—The right men for the work. Buildings and money and other outward things are needed, and their want is terribly felt, but the man to lead, inspire and carry on a particular piece of work, is indispensable. Given the men, other things will follow; we must fix our first attention on the indispensable not on the secondary things. We have many such "right men for this special work" in New Hampshire already; we must be on the watch to keep the number up, to increase it.

Second—Adequate salaries for the clergy.

Seven clergymen of the diocese receive $1500 or more and a rectory, three, $1200 a rectory; one, $1100 and a rectory; seven, $1000 and a rectory; one, $1000 and no rectory; one, $900 and a rectory; four, $800 and a rectory; one, $700 and a suite of rooms; one, only $700. One salary is not given in the Journal, and in several cases men with private means do not attempt to live on the few hundred dollars that they receive.

Third—We should have in our center of work a proper equipment of buildings; I have spoken of rectories and particular salaries, they are often more than this. Several times in the past few years work has been impossible or difficult, because no house could be rented and we had no money to build or buy a rectory. In other places, as in Rochester and in Franklin, work has been greatly hampered because there was no proper church building and in others, as in Dunbarton, or Grace church, Manchester, to take two different rates of congregations, a suitable parish house has been of the greatest help. We must provide and maintain for our best work, necessary and adequate building.

Fourth—In many cases we must provide for the expenses of transportation if the work of a central station is not to be confined to the center. Sometimes it is in the shape of mileage books, sometimes we need a stable and a horse, or the money to hire horses frequently; our one missionary automobile, and three others owned by clergymen, show what an increase of usefulness is given by the provision of means of transportation. Of 24 parsonal clergy of the diocese, 19 serve two places or more; it is very evident how large a part of our work calls for expenses of travel.

REBEL GENERAL ADVANCES ON MEXICO CITY

Situation in Mexico Is Tense and Believed Actual Hostilities Are Now Inevitable.

Washington, Nov. 18.—General Villa in command of the troops under the control of the Mexican Convention at Aguascalientes, is marching on Mexico City. His army took Leon, the first important railroad center south of Aguascalientes, without firing a shot. The forces of General Gonzalez, loyal to Carranza, are gathered at Queretaro where the first important clash in the hostilities between Carranza and the Convention will probably occur.

These facts were reported in official messages received today from George Parrothers, American consular agent, accompanying General Villa. Parrothers stated that Villa was well equipped for the march.

When American Consul Silliman came a dispatch, saying conditions were far more serious in Mexico City than had been since the parties for peace began the regards actual hostilities as inevitable.

General Carranza according to messages from Mr. Silliman and Leopoldo, special agent at Aguascalientes, has declared that he had been understood; that he never intended to deliver the executive power except to General Gonzalez or some other man of his own selection in whom he had entire confidence.

Officials tonight believed that General Gutierrez, chosen provisional president by the convention at Aguascalientes, had ordered a general attack on Carranza's garrisons. Gutierrez controls virtually all the northern half of Mexico and General Villa's advance guard is within 200 miles of the Mexican capital.

One column of convention forces is marching eastward from San Luis Potosi to Tampico.

An engagement near Puerto Mexico, at Juila was reported today by American Consul Canada, General Jose Carbajal, a Villa commander was killed.

Whether the ex-federal forces under Generals Aguilar and Arguendo, which threaten Puebla, are working in harmony with General Villa is not known, but renewed attacks on the Carranza allies by the Zapata troops, who are loyal to the convention are not expected.

NEW CASTLE

Everybody is hoping that the low temperature is no premonition of an early winter. The rigors and delights of the season seem to have established themselves. But it is air that gives rigor to the lungs, that clears the fog from the brain and sends a thrill throughout the body that is fatal to lassitude. The cold blast has also proved fatal to the few hardy varieties of flowers that have made such a valiant fight, the very last to surrender being the ruddy marigolds that have counted their gold and looked it in the big safe down below their will rise the life that makes spring gay which makes us aware in nature's death of our immortality.

UNITED STATES NEEDS A BIGGER ARMY

Cannot Defend Territorial Possessions With Present Army- Reserve Army The Solution

Washington, Nov. 18.—Declaring it would be impossible to defend the Panama Canal and American territorial possessions against attack with present or proposed garrisons unless they could be rapidly reinforced, Maj. Gen. W. H. Clegg, retired chief of staff, in his report today recommended the increase of the Regular Army to a strength of 205,000 enlisted men. He proposed that this force be augmented through a system of reserves, until there was created a mobile strength of 500,000 first line troops equipped for a six-months' campaign.

Gen. Clegg said there was need for more forces to protect rear approaches to American coast defenses and those points not covered for fortresses, and urged that the organized militia be developed to a strength of 800,000 men.

"It is manifest," Gen. Clegg asserted, "that the great waterway of the Panama Canal cannot be protected against the operations of a first-class military power by the present or proposed garrison, we contemplate placing there, without the power and ability to reinforce it rapidly from the United States."

"That an effective defense against an enterprising enemy in the Philippines could be made with a deficiency of 35 percent of the manning details of the coast defenses of Manila and Subic Bay and with a mobile force of 10,000 men is manifestly impossible. That we can rely on our valuable territory of Alaska in its isolated position against an enemy with any military power by placing there a garrison of less than 800 men verges on the ridiculous. In the Philippines we have ample territory to occupy. That territory in the very earliest stages of an impending conflict."

Maxwell Garrison Far-You Small
"As regards the Hawaiian Islands, all military persons will recognize that the proposed provision in this case is a serious attack."

Outlining his view of the army's first line requirements, Gen. Clegg said: "Careful consideration of our needs would indicate the advisability and necessity for having at all times available at home, and in addition to the necessities in our foreign possessions, in the first line of our military establishment, a mobile force of at least 500,000 thoroughly trained and thoroughly equipped fighting men, with adequate supplies for the operation of this force for a period of at least six months."

"This is a conclusion that seems to have been reached by all those who have given careful consideration of this question. It is also agreed that we should have as a second line a thoroughly equipped and trained force of organized militia of not less than 800,000 men, properly proportioned as to its arms and several arms, with stores and supplies necessary for its operation in the field for a like period."

BOSTON LETTER

Boston, Nov. 19.—Refugees from Belgium and other countries in Europe, will, in all probability, be filling the farms of New England before the end of 1915. The United States government, through the immigration department, postoffice department, and department of agriculture, has undertaken upon itself the duty of finding positions in the country for foreigners. This duty has been extended not only to the state of Maine but to every state in the Union. When the big ocean steamships begin to arrive at New England ports this winter there will be hundreds of immigrants from Europe. Many of them will be on their way to Canadian points; others will be on their way to New England farms.

Boston, Nov. 19.—Returns from the first 24 hours shooting of the present open season for deer received at the Fish and Game Commission were for 15 deer killed by counties as follows: Barnstable, 1; Berkshire, 5; Bristol, 4; Essex, 3; Hampshire, 10; Hampden, 11; Middlesex, 5; Plymouth, 5; Worcester, 20; Franklin, 13. The earliest deer reported shot on Monday morning was a two year old buck killed in Berkshire at 6.45 a. m., by E. M. Vrooman.

Boston, Nov. 19.—State Treasurer-elect Charles L. Burill has filed the first piece of legislation to be introduced in the legislature of 1915—the amendment of the constitution to provide for the short ballot, which he championed before the committee on resolutions of the Republican State Convention at Worcester. The constitutional amendment will be presented in the house by Representative Arthur Burr of Ward 10, who is a personal friend of Treasurer Burill, and who also favors the amendment. The amendment provides that beginning with the year 1918, the secretary, treasurer, auditor and attorney general shall be appointed by the governor, all but the attorney general for five year terms, the last named for a single year. At present all these officers are elected annually.

Boston, Nov. 19.—One of the first things which Speaker Channing Cox may be called upon to do after he is introduced into office, is the issuing of precepts for elections in two different districts. A special election will be required in the 8th Worcester district by the death of Representative-elect Edward C. Pratt of Uxbridge, Republican. A special election will also be required in the tenth Worcester by the removal of the votes which has resulted in a tie between Representative E. S. Cobb of Clinton, Democrat, and George A. Whitney of Clinton, Republican. In this latter district by the press returns, Representative Cobb was elected by a plurality of 92, he having 1073 to 1543 for Whitney. As both the 8th and 10th districts are also districts the special elections favor the Democrats, unless the Republicans wage a more energetic campaign than is usual, for Democrats almost always turn out better at special elections than Republicans.

Boston, Nov. 19.—At the Panama-Pacific Exposition next year the State department of forestry headed by F. W. Rane will place before the visitors the Exposition an exhibit showing the methods in use in this state to fight the forest fires. In addition to the lookout tower, all the apparatus used will be at hand, and the men present will illustrate the methods used in cases of actual fire fighting.

Interstate Commerce Commission at Work in Accordance with Terms That Question Rates and Rules.

Washington, Nov. 18.—The Interstate Commerce Commission announced today that as pipe lines had been declared by the Supreme Court to be common carriers, subject to the commission's regulations, it now was proceeding actively, "in accordance with its original terms, which bring into question the reasonableness of the rates, rules, regulations and practices of pipe lines."

This action is in accordance with the original order of the commission, prepared by Commissioner Lane, now Secretary of the Interior, who held that the pipe lines were common carriers and subject to the act to regulate commerce as to their rates and all other operations.

CHAMP CLARK FOR BIG RESERVE

Speaker Champ Clark of the House of Representatives in an interview at Hanu, Ga., said: "I do not want a larger standing army, because I do not believe there is a change in the world that we are ever going to war with any nation, but there ought to be reforms instituted that would give us a reserve force of

SAVE YOUR HAIR! IF FALLING OUT OR DANDRUFF--25 CENT DANDERINE

Ladies! Men! Here's the quickest, surest dandruff cure known.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp of dandruff—that awful scurf. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—anytime—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Trained soldiers, I favor doubling the number of cadets in the Military Academy at West Point and making it obligatory upon the War Department to furnish army officers to any military academy in the country that has as many as 100 boys to train. That would solve the problem, I think. The future of the American navy depends largely upon the development of the submarine in the European war. It is shown that a submarine can blow up a battleship as easily as they have blown up those torpedo boats and light cruisers there will never be another battleship built in the world, except those now under construction."

POLICE COURT

Charles Cammett was arraigned before Judge Torrey in police court on Wednesday, charged with keeping his children out of school, the complaint being made by the Truett officer. He was found guilty and fined $10 and costs $5.00 and the fine was suspended on payment of cost, and a promise to keep the children in school.

Tony Altko and Steve Howley, two Polanders were arraigned before Judge Shores in police court on Wednesday afternoon, charged with mutual assault. Howley appeared with his coat slashed from his right shoulder down, where he claims Tony had made a savage cut at him with a knife. Tony had a cut in his left leg, and he claims he was stabbed by Altko, who denied this and claimed that it was self-inflicted, when he slashed his coat.

The fight followed an engage Altko $10 and costs, and Attorney Shores representing Howley appeared and furnished bonds.

Mr. Hugh J. Robertson of the Eastern Oil and Rendering Co. was here on Wednesday on business.

TURKS FIRED ON U. S. S. TENNESSEE

Washington, Nov. 18.—The United States cruiser Tennessee, or her launch (probably the latter) was fired upon yesterday by the Turkish forts at Smyrna.

Capt. Benton C. Decker of the cruiser, reporting the incident today to the Navy Department, gave no details of the firing, but added that fears had been felt for the safety of the American consulate.

While awaiting further reports from Capt. Decker and others, from Ambassador Morgenthau and Consul Gen. Horton, officials here have two theories.

One is that the cruiser may have been sending a guard ashore to protect the consulate and Americans and other foreigners. They drew this from Capt. Decker's statement that fears had been felt for the safety of the consulate.

The other is that Capt. Decker had called on Consul General Horton, who after returning the call was being taken back to shore by the cruiser's launch, which may have been returning after hours of entry prescribed by port officials which are very strict.

Before regarding the firing upon the American ship as a hostile act, officials here are inclined to await further reports, and hold to the belief that it might have been a misunderstanding or the act of some local official which will quickly be corrected in Constantinople.

Capt. Decker's report, confirming last night's news dispatches, which officials heard and believed were inaccurate, left them today in a state of amazed wonder.

Every effort is being made to get more complete reports of the incident from the Tennessee's commander. His report does not say whether the Tennessee or her launch, as was reported in news dispatches, had been fired upon.

Aside from being considered as a hostile act, the firing may be explained in various ways. The first report said the cruiser's launch had been turned by three shots from the forts as it was entering the harbor of Smyrna. Officials say the forts may have taken this method of warning the ship against mine fields in the harbor.

Uneasiness About Ships

There has been considerable uneasiness about the Tennessee and also the North Carolina, her sister ship, since they went to Turkish waters to look after the interests of Americans, at the end of their voyage to the European Continent with gold for stranded tourists. Reports of mishaps to both ships have been frequent, but always have been disproved by official dispatches.

Ambassador Morgenthau's reports of internal conditions in Turkey since the Ottoman Empire joined the Dual Alliance in the war upon the Entente Powers convinced officials here it would be well to have both ships remain in the Mediterranean for the present, and both have been going from port to port in Turkish waters or those nearby.

So far Ambassador Morgenthau's reports concerning the safety of Americans have been reassuring. An undercurrent of uneasiness was created, however, early this month when the Turkish commander at Beirut addressed a note to the American Consul General, which he intended for the information of the French and British Governments, declaring that for every Mussulman killed in a bombardment of any open and unfortified port three British or French subjects would be put to death, and added that he could not take the responsibility for any uprising against Christians which might follow any such event.

Theory of Officials
It was pointed out at the time that the bombardment of any open and unfortified town was unlikely, and it is prohibited by The Hague convention.

These Turkish officials who remain at the embassy here were confident that if the Tennessee had been fired upon it was the act of some local official which would quickly be taken up by the Constantinople Government. Further than calling for inquiries from other American officials in the vicinity it appeared that Washington was awaiting further reports from the Tennessee herself before proceeding. It became known also that England and France were asking their commanders in the Mediterranean for information of the incident.

The theory of officials here is that Capt. Decker had been ashore at Smyrna to pay his respects to Consul General Horton and that the consul, who had returned the visit, was being taken back to Smyrna when the launch was fired upon.

It was pointed out that making a visit to Smyrna the ordinary procedure for the Tennessee would be to enter the harbor and send a launch ashore. Another view is that the firing may not have been intended as an unfriendly act, but merely as a warning that the port was closed. That is said to be a usual form of notifying a foreign vessel that a port is closed when other notification has not been made. Vessels is about 10 miles from Smyrna.

North Carolina at Beirut
The cruiser North Carolina is at Beirut, on the coast of Asia Minor, about 500 miles away.

Sec. Daniels immediately notified Acting Sec. Lansing of the firing, and that official immediately called upon Ambassador Morgenthau at Constantinople, to make a complete investigation.

Communication, however, between Constantinople and the United States is very slow. The latest message from Mr. Morgenthau, received yesterday, was dated Nov. 12. It made no mention of any disturbances.

As Capt. Decker's report mentioned the fact that anxiety had been felt for the safety of the American Consulate at Smyrna.

Officials say the launch may have been entering during prohibited hours. The opinion was expressed in some quarters that the launch might have been taking a guard from the Tennessee to protect the Consulate and such Americans and other foreigners who would naturally seek asylum in that quarter.

NEW HAMPSHIRE COLLEGE NOTES.

New Hampshire College, Durham, N. H., Nov. 18.—Can the average New Hampshire farm, which is picturesque but sometimes unprofitable, be made a paying investment? Members of the Agricultural Club here, a student organization, have just entered a contest, the aim of which is to show not only that the rejuvenation of this farm is possible, but to show how it may be brought about.

The members of the agricultural faculty committee have described what they call an "average New Hampshire farm" and the contestants are to tell what can be done in two years to make this average farm a good general farm, a farm for beef raising, a dairy farm, or a commercial orchard. Eight men will be chosen by the excellence of their papers to present their arguments orally for the prizes. The prizes are agricultural books offered by the publishers. What the agricultural faculty members consider the "average New Hampshire farm" they have described as follows:

Location of farm: 10 miles from Concord and 3 miles from nearest railroad station.

Size of farm: 180 acres divided as follows: 1.50 acres tillable; 30 acres upland stony loam soil; 10 acres sandy loam river bottom; 10 acres clay loam; 2.40 acres pasture; stony upland; 3.40 acres woodland; 10 acres second growth mixed hardwood 20-30 years old; 10 acres cut over pine land; 10 acres second growth pine, 25-30 years old; 10 acres pine about 50 years old.

The 30 acres stony loam, eastern ex-posure, out of usual frost belt, to be divided as follows: 7 acres of orchard 35 years old (6 acres Baldwin, 1 acre Greenings.)

The present owner of this farm is a widow whose husband died of typhoid fever eight years ago. Until his death the farm had supported 15 head of cattle, 10 Holstein cows and the same number of young stock, also 50 head of sheep and 3 horses. After her husband's death the widow disposed of all the live stock excepting one horse. She also sold all of the farm implements except the haying tools; namely, mow, hay rake, wagon and loaders.

For the past eight years no crops have been harvested except the hay and apples. No manure or fertilizer has been applied to the fields during this period. During the past eight years the widow has kept between 200 and 300 hens.

Buildings include a farmhouse containing 8 rooms, built 60 years ago, a barn 40x80 feet, tool shed, and hen houses. The buildings are without modern conveniences, but are well painted and in good repair. The kitchen and barn are supplied with running water from a spring on the hill 30 rods away. A small trout brook runs across the farm through the pasture and woodland about 50 rods from the house.

The farm can be bought for $7500 and the purchaser has $8,500 cash on hand. Terms of sale: $2,500 cash, the remaining $5,000 to be paid in five hundred dollar notes, due at the end of one, two, three, four and five years, bearing interest at 6 percent and secured by a first mortgage on the farm. Farm to be purchased and possession taken April 10, 1915.

Dr. W. J. Fisher, head of the department of physics, spoke here today in chapel and urged New Hampshire college students to send a message of sympathy to the people of Belgium and their monarchs, together with a contribution of money. Dr. Fisher described Belgium as it was when he knew it a few years ago, and as it is now, and he compared the heroic defense of the Belgian troops to the stand of the Greeks against Xerxes.

The latter will be signed by the students of the college, properly enclosed in a blue and white cover, and will be sent to King Albert and Queen Elizabeth as a Christmas message.

Dr. Fairbairn heavily endorsed the plan of Dr. Fisher at the close of the latter's remarks.

On the platform was Roland H. Spaulding, governor-elect. Mr. Spaulding was given a series of deafening college cheers, but President Fairchild announced that at this time he would not speak.

Other visitors to the college today were the Committee on Education of the State Grange, who also visited chapel. The party included R. J. McLean, of Campton, and A. C. Vaughan, of Peterboro. Mr. Vaughan said the committee had been favorably impressed with what it had seen here.

GALLANT VON MULLER GAVE SHIP TO WOMAN.

London, Nov. 18.—Another tribute to the gallantry of Capt. von Muller of the German cruiser Emden, which was recently destroyed by the Australian cruiser Sydney, is contained in a letter received by a Glasgow woman from her son, a member of the crew of the steamer Kabinga, which was captured by the Emden in the Bay of Bengal. The letter says:

"The Emden captured the Kabinga in the Bay of Bengal, but when Capt. von Muller learned that our skipper's wife and children were aboard, he presented the ship to the lady, remarking to the skipper:

"You can inform the owners that as far as they are concerned the Kabinga has been seized and sunk."

HOW LONG CAN GERMANY STAY IN THE WAR

Paris, Nov. 18.—Germany will have to "bleed to death," slowly, drop by drop. She fights so well defensively that there is no telling how long she can stay in the game.

Competent, impartial military observers here are coming more and more to the belief that the Germans are prepared to hold on indefinitely and in full back by inches rather than by miles. The secret lies in the wonderful German system of trenches.

Even French military experts now admit France is far behind Germany in the art of concealing and protecting her armies in the field. German officers have studied every recent war profoundly. No war has been too small for Germany to watch. She has found something in all of them to put into practical use.

French Use Old Methods
The French army since 1870 has made use of the three usual means of concealing infantry—sitting, kneeling, and standing room trenches. The individual soldier, advancing a few yards at a time under fire, makes use of a shallow, individual trench which he digs, himself, throwing the dirt in front and placing his knapsack on top of the dirt. A company of 250 carries 80 picks and 80 short-handled spades, attached to the knapsacks. It takes several minutes to get at these utensils.

This means of entrenchment has been found to be insufficient and dangerous. The practice of placing knapsacks in front of the individual trench, makes it easy for the enemy to count the exact number of men with whom they have to deal.

The German plan is different. Their trenches are made as invisible as possible and in series. There is an advanced trench two feet wide by five deep. The excavated earth is sprinkled about so that from a distance of 300 yards the trench is invisible. Back of it and connected by zig-zag runways, is a second trench, the same size as the first. The runways permit the Germans to fall back without exposing themselves. These two trenches are 100 yards apart. A third trench 100 yards behind the second, is carefully constructed. In it are the machine guns under turrets. It is usually covered with green logs placed crosswise. On the logs earth and bushes are placed to conceal the trench.

A Second Series.
But the Germans do not stop even here. As soon as this series of three trenches is completed, even though they are under fire at the time, a second series, far more elaborate, is being constructed. This second series of trenches is skillfully and intricately protected, not only against infantry attacks, but from exploding shrapnel as well, so as to be almost equal to permanent outer defenses of a fortified place.

It must be said, however, that since the war began the French have profited by viewing the German trenches from which they have driven the enemy. For this reason the war has developed, into a series of sieges, or it might be called a war of the trenches, for frequently these entrenched positions are so close to each other that sniping has become the pastime of the days.

NOT FROM THE BOARD OF HEALTH.

Several book agents were rounded up by the police on Wednesday, on complaint of people in different parts of the city. Their game was to call at a house and state that the Board of Health had sent them to look over the sanitary arrangements of the house, and in some cases they said to look over the children. Once inside they tried to sell a mediocrity book, for which they make wonderful claims.

Deputy Marshal Ducker found that the Board of Health did not know any thing about the people and never authorized anybody to visit houses. The agents, three women, and a man, were told to cut out that line of talk or they would be put before the court.

Portsmouth People Are Doing All They Can for Fellow Sufferers.

Portsmouth testimony has been published to prove the merit of Doan's Kidney Pills to others in Portsmouth who suffer from back aches and kidney ills. Last night a sufferer doubt this evidence of merit, we produce confirmed proof—statements from Portsmouth people who again endorse Doan's Kidney Pills—confirm their former testimony. Here's a Portsmouth case:

Albert W. Dunlap, 17 School street, Portsmouth, says: "I suffered from kidney disease for years and my back often became so sore and painful that I could scarcely get about. I had other troubles which left no doubt in my mind that my kidneys were disordered. I finally procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Philbrick's Pharmacy and through their use every symptom of the trouble disappeared. I willingly confirm the endorsement I have previously given, praising Doan's Kidney Pills."

THE CHURCH AND PEACE

The trouble with the church is that it forgets, in time of stress, as the medieval Church at its best did not forget, that it is indeed an international organization, existing not for the salvation of England or Russia or America, but for the salvation and control of men. If it understood its own definition and mission, if it had as much faith as fear, ten apostolic voices would on the morrow become ten thousands; and no man shall say that even the Christians bells might not be bells of hope.—Boston Advertiser.

If any one thing is clear about the Christian religion, it is that its doctrine is the doctrine of peace and not of war. Its very heralding was as a new era of peace and good will among men; and its great international apostle urged the nations to remember that they were of one blood. "See how these Christians love one another!" was the tribute of the enraptured paganism in the first Christian centuries.—Boston Advertiser.

The perfected church is in the making. 1900 years seems a long time but in the plan of God with whom "One day is as a thousand years and a thousand years as one day," it may well take courage. The peace the church seeks is more than a truce. It is the salvation of the world through the regeneration of men.

PARISH RECEPTION.

Members of North Church Gather at the Chapel on Wednesday Evening.

Under the auspices of the Federated Clubs of Rye, a most excellent stereopticon lecture on the present European war entitled "The Blight of Europe," was given by Frederick Dean of New York on Wednesday evening, at Rye Town Hall. There was a large attendance including many from this city and North Hampton.

Mr. Dean is a recognized authority on European politics and perhaps no one is better fitted to talk on the great war than he is.

The lecture was well illustrated with exclusive pictures taken during the mobilization of troops with scenes on the line of march, with maps, cartoons and individual portraits. It was a well illustrated epitome of the war, presenting its causes from a racial and religious, as well as from historic, philosophic and psychological points of view.

A social dance followed, music being furnished by Miss Frances Squire on the piano and Mrs. Chester Drake on the drum.

Mrs. Chester Drake was chairman of the evening and Mrs. Wallace Garrett and Miss Mildred Sawyer attended the door.

THE BLIGHT OF EUROPE.

Interesting Lecture Given at Rye by Frederick Dean.

The first North church parish reception of the season was held in the chapel house on Middle street on Wednesday evening from 7.30 to 10 o'clock. There was a large attendance and the affair was a very pretty one. The decorations were very effective, the color scheme being yellow and green, and large bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums were utilized to the best possible advantage.

Miss Frances Grace was chairman of the decorating committee and was assisted by Miss Gladys Pattee, Miss Blanche Fisher and Miss Dorothy Doolittle.

Mrs. Dymond, Mrs. G. H. D. Lamont, Mrs. Cotton and Mrs. Welsh poured chocolate and tea at the attractive tables, prettily set with cut glass and silver, with a huge bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums.

A most delightful evening was passed by all present and all are eagerly anticipating the "next" in the series.
